

because I live in the rugged mountains of... Well, I better not get too specific.

How often do you skate?

Well up until I picked up all-terrain/mountain boarding, the whole "living in a cave" thing affected how often I could skate. There really aren't a whole lot of streets, vert ramps, and or parks in my neck of the mountains.

What type of music gets you pumped up to skate?

Well my Ipod is loaded with all types of music. What I'm listening to really depends on what type of skating I'm going to be doing. But again, the whole living in a cave thing, without electricity, kind of affects how often I can charge my Ipod.

Any shout outs?

Well first and foremost I have to give praise to Allah. Of course I have to give a shout-out to all my boys in al Qaeda. I'd like to thanks George Bush Sr. for all of the training back when Russia tried to creep in on our turf. I can't forget President George W. Bush, thanks for invading Iraq and taking your attention off of me; that's when I had the time to pick up mountain boarding. Dirka, dirka, jihad!
